Most countries in North America, Europe and parts of South America and Australia switch to a form of Daylight Saving Time during the summer. Some people use the terms Coordinated Universal Time and Greenwich Mean Time (GMT) interchangeably, but they are not exactly the same. You can also create a NatGeoKids.com account on the website. "National Geographic Kids" has given kids six and up award-winning facts, fun and photos for 35 years, while simultaneously teaching them about the world. In some countries, the time zone border follows the country's political border. Since there are 24 hours in a day, it makes sense to have 24 time zones in the world. The world uses UTC to regulate clocks. Through Teacher-Tested Language Lessons, Carefully Scaffolded Practice Activities, And Teaching Resources That Keep Classrooms Engaged, Time Zones, Third Edition Delivers The Skills And Language That Learners Need For Wherever They're Going Next. Education focuses mostly on middle-school students who are in the process of forming their world views, and are receptive to looking at the globe differently and developing an international perspective. How Many Time Zones Are in the World? It was difficult to coordinate train schedules. Some of these time zones have increments of 30 minutes or 45 minutes, but most of them represent one hour. During your flight, you went from one time zone into another. The magazine features jokes, activities and games to put archaeology, science, the animal kingdom and technology right in readers' hands with a fast-paced format. When it's 1:00 p.m. in Los Angeles, it's 10:00 p.m. in Paris. This also makes it more difficult to convert between time zones, so many people use a time zone calculator when they need to know what time it is in another part of the world. If you look at a map of the world's time zones, you see jagged lines where they adjust to accommodate these countries. Seja o primeiro a avaliar, clique no botão ao lado. The "Little Kids" photo-driven print magazine publishes six times a year and is available on newsstands and through a subscription. Each community set the official clock at noon when the sun reached its highest spot in the sky. When people started using the railroad to travel and transport goods across the United States, they found local times confusing. Universal Coordinated Time In 1884, representatives from select countries met at the International Meridian Conference in Washington, D.C. During the conference, the members decided to designate the line of longitude that passes through Greenwich, England, as the Prime Meridian. Time zones don't follow a straight line from north to south. Just type "kids.nationalgeographic.com" into your browser to access this branded content created especially for young minds. To understand how this works, you need to know how to convert between time zones. There are, however, more than 30 time zones across the globe. Time zones are a relatively recent invention. Each one hour increment represents a time zone. Standard Time Benjamin Franklin came up with a plan to change time on the clock and move it ahead one hour in the summer. Time advances one hour for every 15 degrees east you move from the Prime Meridian in Greenwich, London. UTC is the time standard. The Common CoreNational Geographic offers common core resources to support educators in grades kindergarten through 12, and to align with state standards. Understanding Time Zones When people talk about time zones, they're referring to the way people adjust the clock as they move toward or away from Coordinated Universal Time (UTC). National Geographic's virtual library compiles a full archive of every page of every issue of "National Geographic" magazine. As a result, noon in Washington, D.C. took place before noon in Chicago. In a way you did. A national weather map of the USA is also a fun way to teach kids about geography and meteorology. The exception to this is a time zone with a 30- or 45-minute increment. Why Did Countries Start Using Time Zones? You add as you move east and subtract as you move west. There are nine time zones between them. This imaginary line became the standard for Coordinated Universal Time (UTC). People used to tell time by the position of the sun. Calculating Time Differences Calculating time differences is fairly simple and requires basic addition and subtraction. This organization's relationship with National Geographic Partners allows it to magnify the work of its labs, impact initiatives and explorers. The virtual library also provides a cross-searchable collection of National Geographic maps, books, videos and images.National Geographic Kids SubscriptionIf you would like a print subscription to "National Geographic Kids," DiscountMags.com offers 10 issues per year at an affordable price. This gave him an extra hour of natural light in the evening, so he wasted less fuel on lighting. More than 100 years later, the United States adopted Daylight Saving Time as a way to conserve energy during World War I. CC0/jarmoluk/Pixabay If you board a plane in New York at 3 p.m. and head west, you land in San Francisco at 6:40 p.m. despite the fact that you were in the air for almost seven hours. Japan Standard Time is nine time zones east of Greenwich Mean Time, so you add nine hours to UTC to calculate the time in Tokyo. Other countries, like China, have only one time zone. The solution was to divide the country into four time zones: eastern, central, mountain and pacific. Within each region, all the clocks displayed the same time.
